

UMN Crookston Student Rating of Teaching (SRT)

NACEP Standard E(1)

The Student Rating of Teaching (SRT) evaluations for courses will be available to students the last two weeks of the semester (last two weeks of May for Spring).

For full-semester classes, students will be sent an SRT invitation by email two weeks prior to the last day of the CIHS class. Students may complete the SRT using a desktop computer, laptop, smart phone or other mobile device with internet connectivity.

Instructor action is not needed for online administration, although you may wish to:

- Log into the online SRT system, srt.umn.edu to check response rates (control click the SRT icon above)
- Remind students to complete the SRT
- Invite students to bring their mobile devices to the last class, and set aside time during the class period for them to complete SRT if they have not yet done so

NOTE: Faculty CANNOT be present while SRTs are being completed; please step outside the classroom during this time.

The University Evaluation of Teaching policy is at <https://policy.umn.edu/education/teachingevaluation>

For any questions regarding the use of the SRT reports, please contact UMCCIHS.

Instructors get the SRT report in their MyU email three weeks after the end of the semester.
